Border Statement Is Commended

New York Papers Comment on Roosevelt's Declaration of Canada's Friendship

New York, May 2.—The New York press, which has featured recent testimony before the House military committee at Washington concerning air bases along the Canadian border, expresses a variety of opinions on the same fundamental issue.

The Herald-Tribune calls the President's denunciation of publication of the testimony a "well-merited rebuke," and says: "It is the duty of high army officers to study every possible eventuality. . . . Military are entitled to the protection of secrecy. . . . But if the committee was stupid Gen. Kitchener was considerably more so. . . . The undefended Canadian border is a fundamental and long-established element in American foreign policy, and when an army officer goes out to circumvent it. . . . he is departing from his proper function."

The New York Times: "No war in which Canada would be involved with the United States can be imagined. Why then prepare for an impossible eventuality? . . . But it is now fairly certain that the plan to build an air base near the Canadian border."

The New York Post: "The nation's thanks go out to Franklin D. Roosevelt for his prompt action in scotching the vicious army plan to build an air base near the Canadian border."

Lung Operations Declared Success

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor

Philadelphia, May 2.—Successful surgical attack on one of the best-guarded strongholds in the body, the chest, was described to the American College of Physicians here yesterday.

Twenty entire lungs, that is, either left or right lung, have been removed successfully in less than four years since the first operation of this kind was done.

The report was made by Dr. Richard H. Meade Jr. of Philadelphia. Surgeons, he said, are performing successfully operations on the chest for grave conditions which a few years ago were considered impossible. Among those previously considered inoperable he enumerated lung tumors, either tumors in the chest and hernia of the diaphragm, which leads to "upside-down stomachs."

R.C.M.P. DENY M.P.'S CHARGES

Canadian Press
Fredericton, N.B., May 2.—Denial of R.C.M.P. charges against the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was entered yesterday before the investigating royal commission. The witnesses appeared in support of the former Postmaster-General's accusations, and he was not present in person.

By proxy, however, he sent a request for an adjournment of the inquiry until after the House of Commons prorogues to facilitate his presentation of evidence on the charges. The commission, Chief Justice J. B. Macleod of New Brunswick, refused the request and instead adjourned the inquiry until May 7.

ADJOURNMENT REFUSED

Quebec, May 2 (Canadian Press).—The Quebec Court of Appeal yesterday refused to grant an adjournment to the second group of coal companies appealing from a conviction in the court of King's Bench on the charge of being parties to an illegal combine, and hearing of the case was placed at the bottom of the roll.

Bill Authorizes Autopsy of Poor

Canadian Press
Quebec, May 2.—Members of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, by a vote of 20 to 9, yesterday approved the bill of Provincial Secretary Athanasius David "To amend the Study of Anatomy Act" after he had declared science could have his body for autopsy.

Mr. David explained the bill gave any hospital in the province the right to perform autopsies on the bodies of poor people who had received hospital care free of charge. The autopsy would be performed "when such autopsy is deemed desirable from a scientific point of view and to establish the real cause of death."

Land Plans For Needy Farmers

Scheme in Alberta For Families Who Lost Farms to Get One-acre Plots

Calgary, May 2.—A farm rehabilitation scheme to aid farmers who lost their lands during the depression and are now wards of the Alberta government through its relief commission, was announced here yesterday.

Originated by Lechlan McKinnon, pioneer Calgary rancher, the plan calls for the settlement of eighty-five families on one-acre plots, each with a house. Ownership of the land will be vested in the Alberta government, and under the care of the relief commission the government will undertake to back the venture financially.

Mr. McKinnon, by gift, has contributed 250 acres for settlement, near Edmonton. After deducting the 250 acres, he has given 150 acres immediately adjoining the McKinnon property.

An advisory committee, appointed by the relief commission, will act as administrator.

In addition to the land and a house, each family will be supplied with a cow, twelve chickens and two pigs, and the lumber for the erection of necessary outbuildings.

A community team will be available for any necessary cultivation to be done by hand power, and a community cow stable will be erected close to eighty-acre plots of pasture land.

Tighten Law To Check Frauds

Canadian Press
Quebec, May 2.—Favorable report on a bill of Provincial Secretary Athanasius David "To amend the Study of Anatomy Act" was given by the public bills committee of the Quebec Legislative Assembly yesterday.

One provision of the bill is that every broker not a member of the stock exchange must keep a record of his receipts and expenditures, indicating the source of the receipts and the objects of the expenditures.

It also is provided that no broker or salesman shall call upon any individual at any residence for the purpose of trading in securities. Infraction will constitute an indictable offence. The words "call upon" include telephone calls.

COURT DECIDES CHURCH CASE

Toronto, May 2.—The Ruthenian Greek Catholic parish of St. George, Oshawa, yesterday was awarded recovery of its church and expenditures, indicating the source of the receipts and the objects of the expenditures.

It also is provided that no broker or salesman shall call upon any individual at any residence for the purpose of trading in securities. Infraction will constitute an indictable offence. The words "call upon" include telephone calls.

Under the terms of the judgment, approved by Mr. Justice J. C. MacKinnon, Father Oleksiw is legally appointed pastor of the parish, and an injunction restrains the defendants or any of their agents from interfering with the plaintiffs or any of the parishioners in use of the church.

The dispute arose following Father Sarmatuk's resignation at the request of Bishop Ledya of Winnipeg, when the former declined to give up his wife and children as ordered by the bishop.

OPPOSE CUT IN CATTLE TARIFF

Associated Press
Washington, May 2.—Sixteen Republican and Democratic Senators yesterday protested to Secretary of State Cordell Hull against any cut in the United States cattle tariff in the proposed trade pact being negotiated with Canada.

The protest, written by Senator McCarran, Nevada Democrat, and signed by five Republicans and ten Democrats, asserted such a reduction would be the first cut in a farm tariff since the Reciprocity Act was passed and a violation of President Roosevelt's promise that protection for agricultural commodities would not be disturbed by trade agreements.

SINGAPORE FUNDS VOTED BY JOHORE

Canadian Press Cable via Rector's
Johore Bahru, Johore, Malay State, May 2.—The Council of State of Johore yesterday voted a gift of $200,000 (about $240,000) from the Sultan and State of Johore to the British Government for the purpose of speeding up the completion of the defence of Singapore.

King George telegraphed the Sultan, expressing his delight to hear of the generous help and his pleasure at the magnificent gift to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the throne.

SPY EXCHANGE IS REPORTED

Poland's Sosnowski Returned For German Agent Theodora Ogurek

Berlin, May 2.—Baron George Sosnowski, the Polish spy whose machinations resulted in the beheading of two women of noble birth with whom he was associated, has been exchanged for Germany's beautiful young espionage agent, Theodora Ogurek, it was learned today.

The exchange was understood to have taken place nine days ago, but the movements of the couple have been enveloped in the greatest secrecy, because of fear for their safety.

To the twenty-year-old peasant girl the exchange meant reunion with her husband, Ernst Draga, whom she has not seen since their prison marriage the night before she went on trial in Warsaw.

For Sosnowski, release meant a period of hiding even from his friends and relatives. Even Sosnowski's parents do not know of his whereabouts, but it was learned he is not far from Warsaw, biding his time until it may again appear safe for him to appear in public.

McGEER RAPS C. L. BURTON

Remarks of Simpson Company Head Draw Hot Retort From Vancouver Mayor

Vancouver, May 2.—Mayor G. G. McGeer on Wednesday afternoon turned the full force of his Irish wrath on Charles L. Burton of Toronto, president of the great department store of Robert Simpson Ltd.

The reason for McGeer's explosion was a statement attributed to Mr. Burton that it would be better for Canada to "abolish the Marry and the Gerys." The Toronto man also referred to "political gangsters who destroy credit," take away initiative and enterprise, and permanently injure the prospects of anyone seeking to make his way in Canada.

It could well be understood the president of Robert Simpson Ltd. feeling bitter against Hon. H. H. Stevens, said Mayor McGeer. "The disclosure with reference to the activities of the financial racketeers in that company clearly demonstrate the necessity for the creation of a new power under which the financial chieftain in modern business can be kept under control."

"It is not surprising that Mr. Burton should hold feelings of bitterness against Mr. Stevens, but it is surprising that he should be making a statement like this," continued the mayor, "why men like Mr. Burton should not be welcome to Vancouver, but when, as visitors, they come to our city and denounce the elected representatives of the people as political racketeers, they are talking like some of the wild jacks."

"Mr. Burton is a type of the monopolist interested with power. His tactics, no doubt, are effective in the existing system of modern business with its vicious and unbridled rule of greed and ruthless competition."

"According to Mr. Burton," went on his worship, "the public should have no protection against financial self-seekers. Government, according to him, should be nothing but a weak and pliant institution, ready at all times to accept dictation from the oligarchy of money power."

SAYS REFORM NECESSARY

"In a word, Mr. Burton is of the type that knows only the economy of buying for less and selling for more. Unfortunately his type is very largely responsible for the deplorable conditions which the price press exposed. That is the reason he is so emphatic in denouncing the legislative reforms that all, with the exception of the monopolist, recognize as necessary."

"I think," with the Communist activities now raging in Vancouver, Mr. Burton's utterances, as representing the other extreme, seem to be somewhat untimely.

"These two abnormal expressions indicate that modern society must be protected from the arrogant selfishness of uncontrollable monopoly and from the blind and impractical obsession of Communism. Of course, it is between the desires of these two groups there are a number of men willing to take a broad middle course. These are the men that Mr. Burton denounces as demagogues and contract-breakers and claims that through their activities the credit of the nation will be destroyed."

"Time, I am confident," concluded the mayor, "will prove that through the action of those that Mr. Burton is denouncing will come the way to ordered progress, to a more equitable distribution of wealth, to a general advancement in all the realms of social justice."

PORTLAND IS SCENE OF FIRE

Portland, Ore., May 2.—An early morning fire to-day destroyed the plant of the Independent Lumber Company in Portland's north and industrial district.

The fire marshal's office said the blaze might run between $500,000 and $1,000,000. The plant was insured for $125,000.

For some time it was feared flying embers would carry the flames to the large Western and Western Lumber Company's plant several blocks distant.

SALVAGING YOUTH

SALVAGING YOUTH IN DISTRESS IS something which is being done in the republic on the south of us. Real salvage work is being done. In these columns yesterday we mentioned what the CCC—Civilian Conservation Corps—has done for the youth of the United States. It is fitting to give some more particulars for the benefit of Canada's Prime Minister, now in England, and to the Canadian Parliament, not working.

In The New York Times magazine section of April 21 there appears a fine human interest story about this "salvaging youth in distress." Consider the work being done. We quote: "These men came to the CCC for jobs. And because the corps was organized as a relief agency, preference has been given from the beginning to men with families in distress—farmers, laborers (skilled and unskilled), factory employees or office workers."

Then we read on with the question as to what these men look like: "Race and nationality give some clues. Poles, Italians, Jews, Irish, Germans, Britons, and Scandinavians of first and second generations—all must be citizens of the United States—are swinging axes and wrestling with boulders. There are negroes, usually in separate camps, and a few Mexicans, Chinese and Japanese. . . in the southern mountains there are tall boys with clear-cut Anglo-Saxon features." So it goes on.

The work these youths are doing is of infinite variety. There is tree-planting; and, says The New York Times contributor, "the biggest forest jobs lie in forest-stand improvement, in the control of tree and plant disease and insects, in reduction of fire hazards, and in fighting forest fires."

Perhaps the most important forest work has been the making of roads and trails. Naturally men can not properly improve a forest or fight fire in it without roads. In the first twenty-two months, be it noted, the CCC finished more than 50,000 miles of roads and trails, including 292 miles of highway. Statistics may perplex many people; but they stand as evidence of what has been done. Consider this: "Cross the Hudson from New York and along the lower reaches of the Palisades you will see a transformation in certain areas where masses of rocks occasionally loomed themselves from the cliff and scattered upon the highway." The men of the CCC have respected all this. The rocks will not tumble now; the highway and its traffic are safe.

In the final analysis, from the economic point of view, we get this illuminating dollar-and-cent picture: "Lakes are being created, stone and concrete and rustic wooden bridges are being flung across water, fireplaces and shelters and recreation buildings are lifting their heads." To cut it short, we get this, and it is an arresting lesson: "Much work of this sort has been built into the land to stay for generations. Estimates place its value up to the beginning of this year at $335,000,000. Against this the government has obligated itself only to $181,000,000 in wages, of which $148,000,000 has gone to families in distress."

All this, of course, refers to what the men have done. The benefits they receive, as The New York Times points out, may be described as of two kinds, what is built into them by the character of the camps, what comes from the work—what, in other words, to use a colloquialism, is "the dignity of labor."

Canada has her relief camps. Nothing is produced there—save discontent. The expenditure on these camps is not helping the men. It is making them dissatisfied with everything. And the taxpayer, whose sympathy is with the unfortunates out of work, has to foot the bill.

SCIENCE AND STUPIDITY

FAIR UP IN THE JUNGLES OF THE Amazon there is one of the most romantic railroads in the world; a railroad, according to grim legends, whose construction cost one human life for every six in its track.

This railroad is a silent testimony to the power of the human race to triumph over the most amazing natural obstacles. Built to carry Bolivian rubber around the rapids in the Madeira and Mamore rivers, it runs through fever-infested jungles from eastern Bolivia to the town of Porto Velho, in Brazil.

Ocean steamers can dock here, more than a thousand miles from the mouth of the Amazon. The railroad was built to give Bolivians something resembling a seaport.

Its construction took years of time, thousands of lives, and millions of dollars. The engineering obstacles were many; the region was more unhealthy than Panama in its worst days, what with yellow fever, tropical malaria, and other maladies.

That the road could be built at all was a remarkable evidence of mankind's ability to cope with nature at her most hostile.

But although men can defeat nature, they can not beat their own blindness. What jungle and microbe could not do human folly has done. This railroad has triumphed over natural obstacles only to succumb to the depression.

Writing in the current issue of Harper's magazine, Earl Hanson tells how this railroad has fallen on evil days.

"The rubber business is on the rocks," he writes. "The railroad does not pay expenses. Two trains a month are now running each way. Budgets are picked alarmingly on the maintenance and replacement side."

"Let the process continue and the road will eventually be abandoned. Towns full of white men will be left stranded, and Indianization, now already going on, will be speeded up. Everything is dying and sleeping back to the jungle."

And right there, in miniature, you have a telling picture of what is wrong with the world today.

As for us who are concerned, we have our age-old fight. We can build practically anything we can imagine; we can whip the jungle at its worst, take ocean ships to the middle of South America, and connect them with a railroad in a spot where even to build a footpath would have seemed absolutely impossible a generation ago.

But we can not seem to find a way to make things work after we get them built. Our technical progress—great enough to make the desert blossom like the rose any time we choose—is at the mercy of our inability to master the economics of modern society. We have conquered practically everything except our own stupidity.

The one thing that keeps us from making a garden spot of the whole world is the simple fact that we are standing in our own way. The decline of this dear-bought South American railroad is a perfect example.

A WORTHY CAUSE

TOMORROW, IN VICTORIA, TAGGERS will be on the street corners collecting funds for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

It should not be necessary to say that this is a worthy cause. But it is. Many cases reported to the society reveal the cruel instincts of people who are supposed to possess at least the rudiments of culture and decency. The work of the S.P.C.A. is directed to the counteraction of these tendencies.

The nickels and dimes that are dropped into the collection boxes to-morrow will be put to a worthy purpose.

HOW TO STOP IT

THE OTHER DAY A MEMBER OF THE British House of Commons pointed out that if there was any real desire to curb the rearmament activities of Germany it could be done by prohibiting the export of certain raw materials produced within the British Empire. This is true enough. Canada, for example, produces about 90 per cent of the world's supply of nickel, and without nickel, Germany would be hamstrung in an armament race. But the big international armament interests will see that there is no embargo on the export to Germany or anywhere else of this vital commodity, or anything else in the way of armament material for which Hitlerland is willing to pay.

Only when nations determine that there shall be no profit in war or preparation for war will it be possible to effect world-wide disarmament. If they genuinely want to prevent Germany running amok again all they need to do is to prohibit the export to her of such products as oil, nickel and other minerals, just as France has prohibited the export of bauxite. This, of course, will temporarily affect industry in certain aspects, but in the long run it would be a blessing, for the aftermath of another war would be revolution in which industry would lose everything.

BUSINESS UNCERTAINTY

THE DECLINE OF BUSINESS AS RE- sulted in the recent reports of the Canadian clearing houses may be attributed largely to the uncertainty which always exists on the eve of a general election and the announcement by the Ottawa government of policies affecting the commerce of the country which are so obscure that nobody knows precisely what they mean.

The adjournment of Parliament for five weeks simply because the Prime Minister is attending the ceremonies in London has left Canadian business in the air, and it is not surprising that important enterprises, plans and programmes, should be held in abeyance. It is difficult to conceive of anything more detrimental to the public interest or any course which could more completely show the remoteness of the federal government from the welfare of the general public.

The relief camp situation alone is urgent enough to demand the concentration of such wisdom as the government and Parliament of Canada possess.

THE DISADVANTAGES OF SCIENCE
 The Detroit News

Radio engineering is so far advanced, even the cheaper sets take on Johnson, Huey and Coughlin on successive nights without blowing a transformer.

REASON FOR COMPLAINT
 The Toronto Telegram

That a motorist may lose everything he owns as a result of a kindly gesture in giving a lift to a friend is not an imaginative situation. Such cases have been through the courts. And while the motorist, when he has been at fault, cannot complain if he has to bear the cost of injuries to pedestrians or the occupants of other cars on the highway, he has, it seems, valid ground for complaint if the guest in his own car in accepting a ride accepts no risk, the liability, if any, falling on the motorist as a result of generous impulse.

FROG FARMS
 The New York Times

Think twice before you try frog-farming. It may not pay. The cow-puncher who sought to make the Virginian's life miserable in Owen Wister's novel long ago found out that to his cost.

Circulars have been distributed lately urging New Yorkers to go into the business of raising frogs for the market, securing brood stock from semi-tropical southern states where frogs are frogs. The conservation commission warns investors to be on their guard.

Commissioner Osborne has collected the latest information from various parts of the country. Wisconsin reports that the frog ranches in that state have not been very successful in producing frogs by artificial propagation. Even Louisiana confirms the failure of artificial efforts along this line.

The United States bureau of fisheries is content to announce that, "while there may be considerable benefit in the marketing of frogs, success in artificial propagation on a commercial scale still awaits realization." Captive frogs, on the whole as it were, are apparently not inclined to submit to the rigors of domestic life.

THINGS CO-ON

FOR SOME TIME, as you may have guessed, I have been skeptical about the progress of things in general. I have questioned the forward march of humanity when it seemed quite clear that humanity was marching backward. I have doubted that the economic system was working properly when it wasn't working properly. I have even questioned the wisdom of our government when it has been quite clear that they have been doing nearly everything calculated to ruin the country. In short, I have been only a restrained and reasonable optimist.

But I am convinced now that things are going to develop satisfactorily. I am satisfied that they will go on in much the same old way, that they are not going to stop or change their nature. I feel confident that life is going to proceed on its old, even tenor. I can assure you that we are not going to starve. In short, my faith in the progress of life and in the future generally has suddenly been restored. All this is just to inform you, in the most modest and unassuming fashion possible, that my green peas are up at last, and the radishes, and the little boy from next door, with his remarkable crop, can no longer treat me as one of life's failures.

HOW IT WORKS

SEVERAL FELLOWS have criticized me harshly for what they consider my unreasonable and unscientific remarks about the reduction in liquor prices, designed to encourage sales. One economist of deep learning has pointed out to me that not only must we drink liquor in large quantities to keep the government afloat, but we must indulge in as many other vices as possible in order to keep the economic system afloat.

Without its vices, said this economist, the economic system would immediately collapse. For example, it is our vice of gluttony and our love of soft, decadent foods that keeps our farmers, our cannery, our manufacturers, our grocers going. It is our love of idleness and our growing inability to walk that keeps our automobile industries going. It is our vice of laziness, our increasing inability to use our minds at all, that keeps the printing press, the tobacco growers going. It is our vice of vanity which keeps the clothing manufacturers going. It is our women's vice of adornment, their lust for flashy beauty which keeps the great cosmetic industry, the current industry and allied industries going, regardless of depression and wars and the collapse of worlds.

Why, then, pick on liquor when it is only one of innumerable vices which keep our capitalistic system working so admirably? Instead of criticizing governments for encouraging this vice, we should urge them to develop new ones which will create new demands, put more men to work producing these things that are very bad for us. It is only by thinking up new things that are bad for us and producing them in a big way that the system can possibly work at its maximum productivity and with a maximum of employment for all. Save humanity from its vices and our present civilization would collapse to-morrow morning. This would be too bad.

UP TO CANADA

MR. GERRY McGEER has been strenuously criticized for his recent wild statements, the wildest of which was that the unemployed strike threatened stable government.

which is too absurd to be anything but a joke. But he did say something which Canada should most well and consider. He said that if the government of Canada maintained its present policies towards the west, ultimately the west would get out of Confederation.

This is an important idea. It makes half our population laugh and half cheer. Both are wrong. There is nothing to laugh about in this assertion, for it is as clear as the noonday sun that the west of Canada that is not going to remain permanently a vast waste, a kind of distant Roman colony of Toronto and Montreal; it is not going to pay untold millions in extra prices for all its goods while it has to sell its own products in cheap world markets; it is not going to remain broke permanently in one of the richest areas on the earth's surface.

There is nothing to cheer about, either, for optimism, about which many local fools talk so glibly, is a desperate venture, a forlorn hope, a more dangerous expedient. But what Canada should remember is that desperation, forlorn hope and danger have never yet stopped people of our kind from doing things, if they get mad enough.

MERE IMITATION

THIS IS TO EASE the mind of a local scholar, who has been in a state of distress for some time. He has been in distress ever since this paper, and others, referred with a certain levity to Windsor uniforms as worn at Ottawa and Victoria.

As an authority on such things this scholar could not help being shocked at this display of ignorance on an important subject; for didn't we know, said he, that no Windsor uniform has ever been worn or seen in Canada? Apparently all these years we have been lulled into a false sense of propriety and distinction by the mere imitations that are wrapped about the substantial bodies of our privy councillors and lieutenant-governors. These garments, said my informant, may be all right for a settlement like this on the edge of the wilderness, but they are by no means Windsor uniforms. They are, said he, just so much broadcloth and gold braid puffed out by inflated ego.

Whereas the real Windsor uniform, a trailing cloud of glory, consists of a blue coat with a red collar and cuffs and a blue or white waistcoat, and is worn on certain occasions, only at Windsor Castle, by members of the Royal Household, and by royal or other distinguished guests by permission of the sovereign. Probably Mr. Bennett is wearing a real one over there now, which, if it becomes known, will lose him at least a million votes in the approaching election.

The Windsor uniform, it seems, was introduced by George III. His other great contribution to the progress of the British people was to "take the assent" of the House of Commons. His friend didn't seem to think the loss of the latter mattered much so long as we retained the former. The point, however, is that you have never seen the full glory of the Windsor uniform and you shouldn't speak with such careless levity about it. We shall not have to get on with the imitations, however, because George III has been vindicated and my scholarly friend's mind is now eased.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALVIN MICHAELS

YOUR RIBBLE
 Whenever I come home to you
 And all my care confound,
 I stray far from my peace,
 With more of happiness.
 You are so very small and frail,
 I do not understand
 Why trouble finds and disappears
 Just when you touch my hand.
 Just when your eyes look into mine
 I feel a new life start,
 Through all my veins it flows
 To your life's heavier song.
 Your life's river trust I go
 Your river flows true,
 When I can see upon your lips
 Faith's smile of value shine.
 You are so little and so frail
 At some brief, wind-tossed flower;
 I cannot guess why you are thus
 Stripped up with peace and power!

What People's Views

WARNING!

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 600 words. Henceforth it positively will not print communications which exceed that length.

These letters must be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers.

Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed.

LOGGING

To the Editor:—If you will let the public know the exact truth about our forest products and take the actual operators' word for logging operations it might throw some light on our wonderful administrators. Not one man has made a success of operating or industry. The only thing we hear is "save the timber" from some one that does not even know how to swing an axe.

Of course they can impose plenty of taxes on industry, and seize the small ones and let the big ones go. If they will give the industry some of the relief money spent, and let them get the business and give employment, things would be much better. Build up your industry and you will build up employment and your business will grow as well. Let the lumber managers go after the business and some over-paid official, who does not know lumber grades or ever has soiled his hands with a board or driven a bull team, interfere.

The actual operator should have a chance to run his own business. The present system is only breaking down one at a time.

The banks lose confidence in our own product. It is not even thought of as an asset.

You take the logged-off land that is held at $5.00 per acre. These large companies should pay taxes on that amount or give it to some settler to make himself a home. If you will tax such land it will encourage some spruce and raising sheep and cattle.

F. D. G.

YELLOW FEVER
 To the Editor:—Your article in today's paper calls to mind many similar reports of many other diseases for curing this or that disease. Such reports should be regarded with caution. The discoveries of medical science are not always so completely triumphant as they are first claimed to be.

The following facts are illuminating: A few years ago it was the fashion to inoculate against the risk of influenza a serum having been "discovered" in the nasal mucus for that purpose.

People went on having influenza as before. The British Medical Research Council, as reported in The London Times of February 25, 1925, made a report on the study of influenza in part as follows:

"The study of influenza has been helped by the fact that mice as well as ferrets can now be infected with the disease."

After commenting on the progress made, the report states: "It is emphasized that the work done does not give any immediate prospect of practical application to the control of human influenza."

Not it is likely to facilitate the distinction between true epidemic influenza and the many other conditions to which the name is at present loosely applied, "quackery" could in plain language, there is no way yet known of preventing influenza, and there never was.

NOT IMMUNITIES

To the Editor:—I wish to ask you to let me inform the British Inland Federation that the Scandinavians are not of the ten tribes of Israel or any other Gentile group.

These people, known as Scandinavians are the Norwegians, Swedes and Danes, and with them are included the people of the islands in the Baltic Sea, and about a half million in Finland on the coastline near the Gulf of Bothnia and the Baltic Sea.

The people in the Shetland and Faroe Islands and Iceland are the descendants from these Scandinavian people.

The Scandinavian Peninsula comprises Norway, Sweden and Finland. It does not include any part of Denmark.

WELSH OUTPUT OF COAL RISES

Production in South Wales and Monmouth Was Up
1,235,075 Tons in 1934

Exports from South Wales and Monmouth were increased by 1,235,075 tons in 1934, compared with the previous year, according to an official statement recently issued.
In the Cardiff district the increase was 370,000 tons; Newport district returns were 848,084 tons up; and the Swansea district figures were 16,107 tons better than in 1933.

Welsh colliery trading results for last year show general improvement.
Welsh coal exports for the first ten months of this year were 4,175,700 tons, a figure below the 1933 results for the corresponding period. It is anticipated, however, that the levy will shortly be made up, mainly owing to the increase to 50 per cent in the Italian import quota.

BABY SCREEN STARS ON AIR

Baby LeRoy and Freddie Bartholomew Among
Guests of NBC Programme

Now Baby LeRoy, age two and a half, finds relaxation after a hard day in the movie studios in just one of the revelations to be made during an unusual broadcast, "What We Do With Our Leisure Time," featuring twelve youthful stars of stage and screen, at 2 p.m. P.T., to-morrow, over an NBC network.
Freddie Bartholomew, ten-year-old star of "David Copperfield," will be interviewed on whether he practices golf, pinball or mumble-pig at the last session for the show and KOMO.

U.S. DERBY ON AIR SATURDAY

For the first time in history the radio audience will hear the actual hoofbeats of the horses as they run the historic Kentucky Derby tomorrow. By an elaborate multiple microphone pick-up, turf lovers will hear the pulsing-thundering thrush of the thoroughbreds as they round the track while three observers describe the classic over the coast-to-coast
Columbia network, from 3 to 3:30 p.m.
P.S.T.
Seven microphones will be used to tell the story of what happens at Churchill Downs. One of the mikes will be placed atop the grandstand and will be manned by Thomas Bryan George, noted turf expert and commentator, who will describe the actual running of the race. Another will be placed in the section of the stand to be occupied by famous turf personalities, who will be brought to the microphone by Bob Trout to give their opinions of the race. Trout also will describe the scene at the presentation stand. Another individual microphone assignment will be handled by Westbrook Van Voorhis, whose voice is familiar to millions of radio listeners as the narrator on the "March of Time" broadcasts and of the daily press bulletins on the Hauptmann trial. Van Voorhis' job will be to describe the panorama of Churchill Downs before the start of the race.
A novel technical feature of the Derby broadcast this year is the placing of microphones at strategic points around the track for the purpose of picking up the hoofbeats of the horses as they round the oval.
This innovation in turf broadcasts is expected to add much to the vividness of the race as visualized by CBS listeners.
Stations will include KOL, KVI, and KGO.

The Way Beyond

By JEFFERY FARNOL

"Of course," said Sir Nicholas at last, "if . . . Miss Mary happens to be a particular . . . friend of yours."

"She is, Freya, she is!" sighed the Earl, cutting him short. "You see I live in hope she will be my Cousin . . . But to-day I am here to remind you of Cynthia Bellenden and—this!" With the word, his right hand appeared and in it a riding crop that, whizzing viciously, smote Sir Nicholas across and across the face—cross blows that cut . . . that staggered and drew from the striking man's lips a cry of anguish.

"Then in upon them ran Mr. Jimmy, his modish languor quite forgotten, and after him, two other young gentlemen, all three of whom hastened to support and comfort their stricken companion, and for a minute or two was clamor of excited questioning, stifled all at once by the Earl's cold, imperious tones:

"Gentlemen, I will explain. Your friend, Sir Nicholas Freya, used his whip on a woman. I've used mine on him. You will therefore understand that just as soon as you or he can arrange a meeting, it is my very earnest hope and desire to shoot him as dead as possible, sir. I bid you good afternoon!" Then, reaching hand to Rosemary, he led her from that silent room and out into the street where, behind two team-spattered horses, stood a dusty carriage.

"Rosemary, where will we go?" he enquired, lifting Jane into the vehicle.

"To Golden Square, please, my lord."

"Do not!" he sighed. "Then we must drive slowly for I have much to . . . to talk about."

CHAPTER XXIV

"First," said Rosemary, sighing with relief as the carriage bore them away. "First I will explain how we came in . . . that man's house."

"Please—no!" said the Earl, turning to smile at her. "First honor me with an introduction to her small ladyship here. And secondly," he continued, when this ceremony had been performed to Jane's demure satisfaction. "The burning question is, now and always, when will you marry me, Rosemary?"

"Ah, never!" she answered, gently. "I have told you so often. You know it is impossible."

"On the contrary," he answered as gently. "I know it is not only possible but actually imperative . . . for the sake of . . . well, let us say—another."

Now at this she turned to regard him with a look of swift and dreadful apprehension.

"Who . . . what do you mean?" she whispered.

"You, you have guessed rightly!"

he nodded. "For Rosemary, my dear, we are both of us quite aware that the late Earl did no. commit suicide. In fact, we know for certain, exactly how and by whose hand he died. You agree?"

"No!" she whispered, shuddering violently. "No."

"And yet, my poor dear, in your secret heart you are dreadfully sure and—this!" With the word, his right hand appeared and in it a riding crop that, whizzing viciously, smote Sir Nicholas across and across the face—cross blows that cut . . . that staggered and drew from the striking man's lips a cry of anguish.

"Then in upon them ran Mr. Jimmy, his modish languor quite forgotten, and after him, two other young gentlemen, all three of whom hastened to support and comfort their stricken companion, and for a minute or two was clamor of excited questioning, stifled all at once by the Earl's cold, imperious tones:

"You, you have guessed rightly!"

"You, you have guessed rightly!"

one to other and, having surveyed his lordship most particularly—his grateful slenderness, youthful face and golden hair, having thus viewed him with the dispassionate, deep-sighted scrutiny of childhood, thought fit to pronounce judgement on this wise:

"I like this gentleman, Miss Mary-dear, so I think you'd better marry him if I was you."

Now at this the Earl laughed down at the dignified little speaker, quite joyfully, then drawing her close, kissed her tenderly and very solemnly.

"Jane," he murmured, putting back her bonnet to caress her smooth, dark hair. "Oh, little Jane, teach her how to love me. Be my little fairy godmother and bewitch her into wedding me."

"Oh, hush!" said Rosemary. "Weave spells, little fairy godmother, enchant me into a fairy prince for her, and this poor world into a garden of delight—will you?"

"Well," answered Jane, thoughtfully. "I'll ask God about it. I'll say you into my prayers. I'll say—'please God make them nice'—and married an' live happy ever after, amen!"

"An' oh, I do wish I'd got nice bright hair like yours!" said Rosemary. "The Earl was silent and smiling down at the child, made as if to kiss her, but chancing to meet Rosemary's look of shocked consternation, he checked the impulse and laughed instead:

"Well, Rosemary, you hear?" he nodded. "Do what you will your fate is settled and mine also—so be married and live happy ever after! My little fairy godmother will carry the matter to the Supreme Tribunal—shame!" cried Rosemary angrily. "To make a mockery of such sweet innocence—you that have faith in nothing! You that . . . best men with whips and threaten their lives—be ashamed!"

"Oh, I am!" he sighed. "That you should find no cause to so misjudge me, for I have my beliefs, Rosemary, faith I would die for—perhaps! But as regards threatening men's lives, well—yes, I have uttered such threats, once or twice, and will again—now, to you, my dear, and pray heed!"

"Guilty or no, you must never wed Richard Vihart . . . for his lady mother's sake."

"His . . . mother . . . ?"

"Lady Vihart!" he nodded. "You see, when I was a child I loved her quite devotedly, now that I am a man I esteem her very deeply, and it would pain me extremely to become the cause of her everlasting grief."

"How?" she gasped. "Ah—what are you suggesting?"

"Death!" he murmured, twining a lock of little Jane's glossy hair about his finger. "The sudden death of her only son. So my dear, you must never marry our Richard or—though he kill me in the act, as I think he would, I shall monthly certainly and healthily. Now why look at me with such horror—does this love of mine—"

"Love!" she exclaimed fiercely. "Such love is only self-effacement, a hateful affliction—a dark and dreadful menace."

"Yet it is myself," he sighed. "And all that I am."

"Then I pray the merciful God preserve me from it."

HON. G. M. WEIR HEARD IN EAST

Addressed Victorian Order of Nurses' Convention in Ottawa Yesterday

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 2.—The two-day convention of the board of governors of the Victorian Order of Nurses ended last night and delegates went home with the suggestion that "we are on our way to becoming a public utility."

The suggestion was contained in an address by Miss Ethel Johns of Montreal, editor of The Canadian Nurse, who said 40 per cent of the Canadian nursing profession suffered from unemployment, while 60 per cent of the population went without nursing service.

Miss Johns said also she expected a fight would arise soon over the standard of education in nursing, and that the existing standard would have to be upheld by the order.

Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Health for British Columbia, gave an account of nursing education in his province, and said nurses there attained Bachelor of Science degree.

In a symposium of the work of the order, Sir Ogilvie, chief editorial writer of The Ottawa Journal, suggested closer co-operation between members of the order and the press. He said someone should be appointed by the order to deal with newspapers and provide them with human-interest stories dealing with the order's work.

John Drinkwater's intriguing comedy, "Bird in Hand," will be presented on May 10 by the Normal School players.

This well-known play, set in an old English country inn, depicts the age-old struggle between fresh standards and outgrown prejudices.

The part of Greenleaf, the cantankerous old inn-keeper, is being played by William Allen, and Florence Robertson portrays the part of his wife, Rhoda Walton, is delighted as Joan, the modern young daughter who, much against her parents' wishes, loves the son of the village squire, which character is being taken by Arthur Hawkes.

After many misunderstandings, which lead to humorous situations in which a famous barrister, a rich man's son and a cockney traveling salesman are involved, the story arrives at a satisfying conclusion.

The play will be presented in the Normal School auditorium.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MRS. ELDRED TELLS HOW TO CARE FOR CONVALESCENT CHILD

A sick child is comparatively easy to care for. It is during the convalescent period, when he is weary of bed and "tiring" to go, that it is so difficult to carry out the doctor's orders to "Keep him quiet!"

Not only is the mother torn in twain by her desire to keep the child amused and get back some of her own independence, but she has to meet quite frequently the child's increasing demands for her presence and attention. Being the master of the household is too delightful a role for any child to relinquish readily and to prolong it he manages to invent demands and to pretend illness so that he may keep his mother in the comforting atmosphere of his mother's anxiety.

LOOSEN CHAINS SLOWLY

It is impossible for the mother to step out of the picture too rudely. It must be, of necessity, a gradual loosening of the maternal chains. The child should be left alone to play, while the mother busies herself with her own interests.

Our leaflet, "Amusing the Convalescent While in Bed," and a companion leaflet, "How to Care for the Convalescent," may prove helpful to the mother at this trying period. Both may be had for a self-addressed and stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

HEALTHY IN BRIGHT COLORS

There should be constant talk of the delight of being well and the child's ability to take his place in school and on the playground again. The joys of health should be painted in brilliant colors. There should be no emphasis whatever upon the privileges of being sick. The child comes and takes advantage of these without being spurred. He should feel rather that, while sickness must be accepted unflinchingly, that the real goal of convalescence should be health and a vigorous independence of activity.

Only the mother who is eager for her child's independence will trade upon the convalescent child's desire to monopolize her attention. The normal mother will quietly slip out of her role of comforter, companion and nurse and allow the child to resume a self-reliant, independent existence.

To-morrow—"In Training Children, After For 250,000,000."

Wm. Allen, who is portraying Greenleaf, the inn-keeper, in John Drinkwater's "Bird in Hand," which will be presented May 10 in the Normal School Auditorium by the Normal School Players.

John Drinkwater's intriguing comedy, "Bird in Hand," will be presented on May 10 by the Normal School players.

This well-known play, set in an old English country inn, depicts the age-old struggle between fresh standards and outgrown prejudices.

The part of Greenleaf, the cantankerous old inn-keeper, is being played by William Allen, and Florence Robertson portrays the part of his wife, Rhoda Walton, is delighted as Joan, the modern young daughter who, much against her parents' wishes, loves the son of the village squire, which character is being taken by Arthur Hawkes.

After many misunderstandings, which lead to humorous situations in which a famous barrister, a rich man's son and a cockney traveling salesman are involved, the story arrives at a satisfying conclusion.

The play will be presented in the Normal School auditorium.

A sick child is comparatively easy to care for. It is during the convalescent period, when he is weary of bed and "tiring" to go, that it is so difficult to carry out the doctor's orders to "Keep him quiet!"

Not only is the mother torn in twain by her desire to keep the child amused and get back some of her own independence, but she has to meet quite frequently the child's increasing demands for her presence and attention. Being the master of the household is too delightful a role for any child to relinquish readily and to prolong it he manages to invent demands and to pretend illness so that he may keep his mother in the comforting atmosphere of his mother's anxiety.

QUEEN TO WEAR SILVER LAME

At Jubilee Thanksgiving Service at St. Paul's Monday

Associated Press
London, May 3.—Fashion as well as old-timers are becoming reminiscent in anticipation of the royal Silver Jubilee celebration Monday. Modes of twenty-five years ago, with the old pre-war curves and tight lacing, are giving many of England's loyal womanhood something of the appearance of having emerged from an earlier day in the empire's history.

Presentations at one style show of a creation influenced by the ample hips and bustier suggest the style of 1910 produced a furor of excitement among the spectators. Petticoats, too, are back, and not a few of the debutantes at the Jubilee events will resemble those of 1910 who tapped a dainty parasol.

Shimmering silver will be the motif of the ensemble which Queen Mary will wear at the thanksgiving service Monday in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Her long-sleeved gown for the occasion is fashioned from hydrangea-pink silk net and embroidered lace mounted with cloth of silver.

For the drive, her gown will be covered with a cloak of silver woven with lace and with a collar of white fox. She will wear a swathed and plumed turban in the same colors.

SPRING MODE GIVES BEAUTY NEW COLORS

Correct makeup to wear with the most popular spring colors is a question that seems to be bothering a good many beauty-minded women these days.

It is not difficult to decide on the right rouge, lipstick, eyeshadow and powder if you intend to stick to navy blue, black, brown, or if you have gone in for the more daring shades of the new seasonal color scheme, you ought to spend hours over a cosmetic counter before you make one single purchase.

Keep in mind, of course, that all makeup is used simply to enhance the natural beauty with which nature endowed you. You shouldn't try to figure out fantastic ways and means to apply rouge and makeup in the hope that you will be able to change features that displease you. You won't be successful anyway. Unless you do your work behind footlights or know full well that all of your dancing for an evening will be done under amber lights, there is no use hoping that rouge will make your chin look smaller or that lipstick applied beyond the natural line of the lips will change the contour of your mouth. The best you can do is to keep smiling and to wear makeup that harmonizes with your own coloring and which does not clash with the clothes you wear.

When you start out to buy cosmetics to go with a special outfit, wear that outfit. Ask the saleswoman to let you try various tones to see which are most becoming. It is impossible to make flat rules about what rouge to wear with chartreuse, which lipstick looks well with orange. A great deal depends on your own skin tones. You simply have to experiment.

Victoria's Jubilee Coins Found Here

An interesting group of medals and coins which were struck on the occasion of various important milestones in the reign of Queen Victoria have been discovered by Mrs. L. A. Straker of Oak Bay among some old valuables in her possession.

Two one-penny coins, issued by the Bank of Quebec in 1837, the year of Victoria's accession, are among them. A handsome bronze plaque, with the face of Queen Victoria in relief, which was issued on the occasion of her Golden Jubilee in 1897, is believed the only one of its kind in Victoria. Other coins are the Jubilee half-crown and the Jubilee shilling, both issued in 1897, on the occasion of Victoria's Diamond Jubilee to commemorate the longest reign in British history.

CHEVROLET DIVIDEND

New York, May 3 (Associated Press).—Chrysler Corporation directors yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25c on the common stock. Profits of the corporation for the March quarter were equal to $2.12 a share against 70c a share for the same period last year.

DYKE SPEAKS AT CONCERT

Langford, May 3.—George Dyke will give a talk at the jubilee concert to be held in the Prince Edward branch No. 91 B.E.L. clubrooms this evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Fay Ockenden will give violin solos, while Miss Elizabeth Welch, contralto, will be the vocalist. Selections will be rendered by the juvenile orchestra.

The monthly meeting of St. Matthew's Guild was held Wednesday afternoon at "Holmwood."

Results of the book tea held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Haggie were given by Mrs. E. C. Stewart. Mrs. E. J. Smith offered her home at Langford Lake for a silver tea. The offer of Mrs. F. M. Welch for the members to meet at McEban's in June was accepted.

Mrs. E. H. Brook gave the reading. The tea sponsored by members of St. Matthew's Guild was held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Haggie. First prize for guessing the book title was won by Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle. Mrs. E. H. Brook, Miss Stella Mincks, and Mrs. E. J. Smith were runners-up.

A social evening was spent at "Albion," Millstream Road, by members of the Langford and Oakwood A.Y.F.A. Contests, music and dancing were enjoyed.

The monthly meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Association will be held Friday, May 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates and family have taken up residence in P. G. Waide's bungalow, Island Highway.

Service will be held on Sunday in St. Matthew's Church when the jubilee form of worship will be used by Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle.

HIS 15TH BRIDE

"I don't see why we shouldn't be able to live happy ever after," says William Coffey (below), forty-seven, ex-merchant commander in the U.S. Navy, as he makes arrangements for his fifteenth wedding next June in New York. Widowed twice, divorced eleven times and once committed himself, he says Ernestine Smith, twenty-three (top), daughter of a Java planter, will be his fifteenth bride.

HAND IN GLOVE WITH BEAUTY

Anna Lee, film star, wears gloves when retiring, not only for the usual skin treatment, but for application of a nail fertilizer that softens split nails.

By ALICIA HART

Hands that pin a fragile cluster of deep purple violets at the waistline of a trim, new suit on Sunday morning must be smooth, soft and white. They need special attention right now and a few good, sensible reconditioning treatments.

If your cuticle has become rough and hard, invest in a reliable nail cream, designed to soften rough edges and to remove bits of dead skin which accumulate under the cuticle itself.

Massage it in just before you go to bed. Leave it on all night.

Use a nail brush each time you wash your hands and, if little callouses show around the edges of your fingers, smooth them gently with a piece of pumice. Remove discolorations with lemon juice.

In addition, be sure to apply hand lotion several times a day. Get a greasiness one and put it on wrists and arms as well as hands.

If you have an excessively dry complexion, cover your hands with cream.

HOW I HATED CLEANING TOILET BOWLS UNTIL I USED

Stains flush off this easy way

Once each week sprinkle Gillett's Pure Flake Lye—full strength—into the bowl. Off come all stains without scrubbing! Kills germs, banishes odors as it cleans. Frees trap and drain pipe from obstructions. Absolutely harmless to plumbing and enamel. Get a tin today!

Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water.

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

cream just before you are ready to go to bed and then wear cotton gloves all night. If you don't have a rich cream, use olive oil.

Omit liquid polish from your manicuring routine for awhile. Polish is not harmful, of course, but it is not a bad idea to give your nails a chance to breathe and become a little stronger. Substitute powder polish for a few weeks. Then, when you are ready for your Sunday manicure, your nails will be in excellent shape.

Meanwhile, look at some of the new polish shades on the market right now. There are lovely pinks, warm reds and some natural tones that are flattering. Fashion women are wearing the dark shades this spring. However, in this country it is more than likely that neutral tones will predominate.

WANT STRICTER CARTAGE RULES

Stricter enforcement of regulations governing the transfer business was sought by a delegation of transfer and cartage men who waited upon the Industrial committee of the city council yesterday.

A proposal was advanced to increase the license fee for that business to prevent "pirates" from invading the fields of legitimate concerns.

The matter will be taken up in greater detail at a meeting in the near future.

INCREASE SHOWN IN LAND SALES

City land sales during the first four months of this year have exceeded the volume of sales for the entire twelve months of 1934, it was announced yesterday by Alderman R. A. C. Dewar.

When the council meets again it will be requested to sell five more parcels at a total cost of $1,500.

The increase in sales was seen by Alderman Dewar, chairman of the lands committee, as a recognition by home builders of the fact that it paid to erect their houses in Victoria.

DICK JOHNSON WINS

Tacoma, May 3.—Dick Johnson, young Portland midweight, won a decision over "Red" Gregory, Hollywood veteran, in the six-round main event of the ring programme here yesterday evening. Johnson had an edge in virtually every round. He weighed 160½ and Gregory 160½.

PAIN OVER KIDNEYS?

WHEN pain over kidneys or bladder irregularities keep you getting up at night; if you feel nervous, dependent, heed the warning. Drink plenty of pure water and get Dr. Pierce's Amuric at the drug store. Read what Edward A. Barry of 12 Ramsey Place, Toronto, Ont., said: "Four years ago I had terrible pain in the kidney region and was not able to walk. I would not sleep, had dizzy spins, and my whole system was in a state of collapse. I took Dr. Pierce's Amuric Tablets and was completely relieved of all my troubles, kidney pains and others. I had life to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Fort Ste. John, Ont., for a total package."

The Culmination of 265 YEARS OF SERVICE

"Windsor — 1914-1935"

War is the worst calamity of commerce. The flames of Ypres, the fire of Passchendaele, the eruption of Vimy absorb the energies, the heroism of men. The fate of the British people lies on the sea. A misty afternoon at Jutland holds our being in the balance. Freedom of the sea, for commerce to pass freely on its lawful undertakings, is secured. Peace, following the war, brings speculation. It is a new age in which wealth is to come to the best guesser, industry, prudence, and thrift are out of date. The ruins of this ancient fallacy still clog the path of commerce.

Changes come into the Hudson's Bay Company.

Taking our lessons from the best of the past, taking our example from the best of the present, we hope to grow as the Dominion grows and project into the future our aspirations of to-day. Just as "Value for Value" stood our forebears in good stead two hundred and sixty-five years ago, so do we hope that Value and our name will always be associated. Just as service to our customers has been the mainspring of our success in the present, so, as we succeed in service, will our growth be in the future.

In value and service will be written the record of our ancient Company bearing an honored name, "The Governor and Company of Adventurers Trading into Hudson Bay."

Kentucky Derby Will Be Run To-morrow In Sea of Mud

THE SPORTS MIRROR

THEY CALL him Derby Dick because he has beaten up many winners of the Kentucky Derby. His real name is Herbert J. Thompson, but what name is more interesting is whether he has trained his fifth Derby winner this year. Thompson's candidate in to-morrow's racing classic at Louisville is Bonanza, one of the finest juveniles of 1935. He either trains or co-trains four winners of the famous mile and a quarter race at Churchill Downs. The great majority of them are extremely fortunate if they train a Derby winner once in a lifetime.

Quagmire Will Face Big Field In U.S. Classic

Even Streets at Louisville Flooded After Downpour; To-day is Favorite

NELLIE FLAG WELL FANCIED

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

Louisville, Ky., May 3.—The approach of another Kentucky Derby, the sixty-first and by far the stormiest since the epochal year A.D. 1929, to-day finds one intriguing question, above all others, absorbing the best and most masterful minds of the horse-racing fraternity.

To give this subject a light and frivolous touch, the issue concerns the ability of a lady of unquestioned thoroughbred class to kick mud in the eyes of fifteen or more blue-blooded gentlemen, right out in full view of perhaps 60,000 horse racing addicts, gathered to witness the running of this colorful classic for three-year-olds at Churchill Downs.

In short, can Nellie Flag, strapping granddaughter of Man o' War, who was the best filly of 1934, and has returned to the races this year with smashing success, overcome the handicaps of sex and precedent sufficiently to whip a somewhat ordinary field of colts to-morrow afternoon in heavy going over 1 1/4 mile and a quarter route, at Churchill Downs?

On the face of it, the odds seemed to be 50 to 1 against Nellie. Only one filly in the past sixty years has won the Kentucky Derby. That was Regret in 1915, and only one other racing mare, Lady of Navarre in 1906, was able to do so well as second place. Still fresh in memory are the high hopes placed on the chances last year of two other queens of the turf, Mata Hari and Bamar, but the best either could do was to finish in fourth place after it was all over and the mighty Cavalcade had run his field into the ground.

ACES LOSE IN TABLE FINAL

Glenshiel Hotel Smothers Champions in First Game of Ping-pong Play-off

Playing a good brand of ball the Glenshiel Hotel swept through the Aces by a 3 to 0 score in the first match of the city table tennis championship. The next match will be played on Saturday afternoon, at 1 o'clock, and is, of course, a semi-final.

Again Brown-Cave came through for the Aces, to make the score 2 to 1. However, Glenshiel stepped up the score to 3 to 2, and with defeat facing them the Aces put up a desperate struggle to make the score 4 to 4. Brown-Cave won their fourth game by beating Eric Cox in one of the best matches of the evening. Cox led all the way but, coupled by a few bad drives and Brown-Cave's unerring steadiness, he could not manage to gain the vital points.

At this stage the Cox brothers won their games, to clinch the match. In the second to last game Vic Tully gave Brown-Cave a scare as he took a 9 to 5 lead, however, the city champion lived up to his name and returned some things unobtainable. Brown-Cave won the match 10 to 5. In the final match of the evening which put the Glenshiel on the right end of the score, 10 to 6.

Bewhiskered Team From Oregon State Rolls 2,775 in Open Team Event of N.I.B.C. at Tacoma; Eberhart and Reichert, Seattle, Top Doubles With 1,177

Tacoma, May 3.—The whiskered bowlers from Yakima rolled into first place in the open five-man event in the Northwestern International Bowling Congress here yesterday evening with a score of 2,775, thus replacing the Sterling Tobacco Company, Seattle, erstwhile leaders with 2,740.

Corvin Eberhart and Paul Reichert, Seattle trundlers, staged a belated rally to shoot 1,177 to top all previous efforts in the doubles event. On the early afternoon shift, Tacoma took the lead with 1,168. Fred Wahlers and Len Lefterich, good for the top spot in the Seattle pair went to work. When he discovered Helene Madison and made her the world's greatest woman swimmer; taught her how to cut through the water so fast she broke nearly every free-style record, many persons said he was "lucky."

Rookies Are Outstanding In Major League Baseball Campaigns

Youth Big Help To Chicago Sox And Cincinnati

Have Played Important Roles As Two Clubs Prove Early Threats to Favorites

First East-west Rounds Under Way

It seems to be an almost unbreakable rule in baseball that youth must be served—especially in the early spring. That goes a long way toward explaining the positions of Chicago White Sox and Cincinnati Reds in the current major league standings, as well as a number of other April surprises.

The White Sox, running a close second to Cleveland in the American League, appear to have skinned the cream of this season's rookie crop with Vernon Washington hitting .306 and Ray Redfield in the outfield and John Whitehead on the mound winning his first three games in fine style.

Cincinnati's freshmen haven't been so impressive at the plate—Lew Riggs tops them with a .286 average—but either their inspiration or the realization that they have to battle for their regular jobs has started a few of the veterans toward comebacks. And it all has helped to put the Reds into the first division scrap.

REDS ON TOP

In the number of rookies playing daily the Reds still are at the top. Billy Myers and Alex Kampouris, who hardly graduated from the recruit class, are in the outfield, Ival Goodman on the outer line, Bill Campbell catching and Gene Schott and Al

Softballers To Meet Wednesday

The annual meeting of the Lower Island Softball Association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening. It was announced late yesterday. The session will start at 8.30 o'clock and will be presided by an executive committee. E. L. Stock, president, will occupy the chair. Voting power will be limited to those clubs which have filed their entries for the current season and have paid their entry fees.

Hollingsworth taking their turns on the mound.

In contrast to this array, the rest of the National League's rookie crop looks slim. Pittsburgh presents Darrell (Cy) Benson, sensational young hurler who has won three games, granted only fifteen hits and whiffed twenty-two batters. Most of the others have a pitcher or two up from the minors, but so far the other recruits have done little of importance.

In the American League the standouts in the hitting line are Roy (Beau) Bell of the St. Louis Browns and Mel Almada of the Boston Red Sox, with batting averages of .353 and .337 respectively. Roy Hughes has been performing so well in the Cleveland infield that he may be hard to oust when Billy Knickerbocker is able to play again, but Louie (Buster) Bergerman's yet come up to expectations. Elsworth Dahlgren, Red Sox first baseman, also is a doubtful quantity. Alvin (Doc) Fowell apparently has won a steady job in the Washington outfield, and Wally Moses, with the Philadelphia Athletics, where Alex Hoots had last season seems to be in the line of things. Some good pitching performances in the junior circuit have come from Vito Tamulis of the New York Yankees, Leon Pettit of Washington, who put in two years in the minors, Joe Sullivan of Detroit, and Joe Vance of Chicago. Recruits and veterans alike were scheduled to meet new and perhaps stiffer tests, to-day with the opening of the first east-west rounds in both leagues. Yesterday's three-game program was a complete washout as rain and cold halted the New York-Brooklyn and Philadelphia-Boston games in the National League and Detroit-St. Louis in the American.

COAST LEAGUE

Stockholders of the Coast League, to whom it's a case of the more the merrier, noted symptoms of convalescence in the still sickly circuit today as Hollywood joined San Francisco and Los Angeles in the battle for second place.

The Stars defeated Gabby Street's Mission, 6 to 3, to sweep the series and tie the Seals for the second berth.

Los Angeles, which took second place away from the Seals Wednesday, after losing it to them the day before, relinquished it a second time when the San Francisco team defeated them 6 to 4.

Despite their own seven errors, the Oakland A's proved unable to out-fumble Dick Barrett, who practically forced them to defeat Seattle 4 to 3. Three of Oakland's runs were due to walks by the Tribe moundmen.

Portland gave only five hits off Bill Hartwig, against Sacramento's ten off "Bobo" Carson, but managed to down the Seals, 3 to 1. The first run came in the second, when Goldie Holt, Portland left fielder, repped the first pitch for a homer. Off England hit a single in the sixth to score two runs.

Short scores follow:

At Portland—R. H. E.

At San Francisco—R. H. E.

Heavyweight Fight Plans Criticized

President E. C. Foster of National Boxing Association Declares James J. Braddock Not in Same Class as Baer; Claims Joe Louis is Still Novice

President E. C. Foster of the National Boxing Association was sharply criticized today for his statement that James J. Braddock, who fought Max Baer last night, was not in the same class as Baer, and that Joe Louis was still a novice.

President E. C. Foster of the National Boxing Association was sharply criticized today for his statement that James J. Braddock, who fought Max Baer last night, was not in the same class as Baer, and that Joe Louis was still a novice.

New York, May 3.—The story of relief case No. 2766, a battle against odds that averts anything James J. Braddock will face in the ring June 13 against the heavyweight champion, Max Baer, came out in the public prints yesterday. Braddock, challenger for the top crown of the prize ring, would prefer it never came to light, but the tide has turned now, the youngsters aren't hungry, the milk bill has been paid, the rent is paid in advance, and the butcher is no longer howling for money.

But Mayor Julius L. Reich, of North Bergen, N.J., and the relief commissioner over there, got to tangling politically over the distribution of aid to the needy, and Braddock's name popped out. Had the heavyweight challenger, pictured always as a young athlete rolling in wealth, actually been on relief?

"Sure," said Braddock drowsy yesterday in his training camp at Loch Sheldrake, up in the Catskill Mountains.

Up to that fight he hadn't even an overcoat to wear. His hair was overhanging his collar.

As Christmas the milkman was about to shut off the supply for his three children, Howard, Jay and Rose Marie. When the apartment house rent was seven months overdue the Braddocks moved to the basement where Jimmy worked out the debt as janitor.

Then Joe Gould, his manager, talked the Garden in matching Braddock and Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight contender. Braddock's share was $100 for a broadcast. When the Braddocks are back on the fourth floor of the apartment house, his share of the Baer fight should net him at least $30,000. If he wins the title, his fortune is made overnight.

There's one more item in the financial report.

"As soon as I was paid off for the Lasky fight," Jimmy said yesterday, "I gave $500 to the relief funds of Union City. That covered the $500 I got all told when we were on relief."

BARNEY ROSS IS CONFIDENT

Predicts He Will Knock Out Jimmy McLarnin in Title Fight on May 28

Chicago, May 3.—One Irishman? Yes! Four Irishmen? Positively not!

With that advance warning to the New York State Athletic Commission that he does not intend fighting one Irishman in the ring, but will not tolerate an Irish referee and two Irish judges, Barney Ross, Chicago's Jewish contender, left for his home in the Catskill Mountains yesterday on train for his third championship waterweight battle with Jimmy McLarnin, the betting Vancouver Cent.

Barney, confident of not only beating McLarnin but of knocking him out in their fight in New York, May 28, let Co-Manager Art Winch, 60, most of the talking, so he said goodbye to his friends and promised to get the waterweight crown to make up for the lightweight title he surrendered voluntarily.

"Barney can and will beat McLarnin," said Winch. "We're not going to let him fight McLarnin and three other Irishmen—the referee and two judges—like he did last time. If they try to put that over on us again at the last minute, I vow he will walk right out of Madison Square Garden, and let McLarnin, the customers and the commission sit there."

Ross appeared to be in great condition as he hustled through a brief workout before entraining for his camp. He looked heavier and his punches thudded against the big punching bag with plenty of steam.

"I see in the papers that McLarnin thinks he learned something of value in watching me fight Woods in Seattle. But that's bunk. You can't learn anything watching a fighter fight another man. Fighters, including myself, fight each man differently. I have met McLarnin twice and beat him both times. He hasn't fought since that time, while I have been busy."

"I respect him. He's got a tremendous wallop, but if you think Barney is going to let him plant that overhand right, you're foolish. I'll be careful at the start, but not idle, offensively speaking."

SOCCER TEAMS END SCHEDULE

Season Will Be Wound-up To-morrow By Clubs in English League

London, May 3.—Marked by the magnificent triple success of London clubs in winning the first, second and southern section third division championships, the English soccer season closes tomorrow.

Arsenal made sure of top place in the first division on Easter Monday. Brentford lead the second and Charlton Athletic the southern section. Local clubs are now wondering whether West Ham United will add to the achievements of their favorite clubs by accompanying Brentford into the first division next season.

To accomplish this the revived Hammers must defeat Oldham Athletic and Bolton Wanderers must lose to Blackpool on the seashore ground.

There seems little doubt that Leicester City will accompany Tottenham Hotspur into the second division. The City is one point behind Middlesbrough in the league table and is faced with a hard game at Portsmouth. On the other hand Middlesbrough is at home to Chelsea. The Spurs' closing match is with Leeds United on the Yorkshire team's ground.

Pierre Werthiemer's Thoroughbred Captures English Classic For Fillies at Newmarket; Hyndford Bridge Second and Caretta Third

Newmarket, Eng., May 3.—Mess. French-bred filly owned by Pierre Werthiemer, to-day won the 172nd running of the classic for fillies, the One Thousand Guineas, with J. Shand's Hyndford Bridge second and Lord Londsdale's Caretta third.

Mess started at odds of 6 to 1, Hyndford Bridge at 30 to 1 and Caretta at 9 to 1.

The invader won handily, having a three-length margin at the finish of the race over the mile course. Hyndford Bridge gained the place by a margin of a length and a half. Twenty-two ran.

Mess was making her first start on the English turf but was highly regarded because of her fine record as a two-year-old in France last year. She is a trim bay by Kireubin out of Mackwiler. Johnstone, English rider, had the mount.

Hyndford Bridge, a chestnut filly by Bureford out of Portree, was ridden by Harry Wragg, and Gordon Richards rode Caretta, a chestnut by Piasala or Bolero out of Daumont.

The Guineas is one of the two greatest races for fillies on the English turf, the other being the Oaks at Epsom. The two races among the five classics for three-year-olds. The One Thousand was first run in 1814, and to-day's renewal was worth more than $55,000.

The King's filly, Fairhead, was prominent in the early running but did not finish among the first ten, a disappointing result not only to her backers but to the public generally, as it was hoped a victory would commemorate the Jubilee.

Coronet was fourth, Papyrus fifth, Fossil sixth. The time was 1.43 1-5.

EVEN THE WRONG SIDE MUST BE RIGHT.

WHEN we refer to the wrong side, we mean, of course, the inside, but we do not refer only to the lining which is all you can see on the inside. Between the lining and the fabric, there are many highly technical operations which can only be done well by skilled craftsmen.

Twenty-five years of tailoring experience has taught us to carry out these operations efficiently. The foundation which is formed by a canvas, must be constructed and placed with meticulous care. The choice of suitable Hymo is an all-important factor, because this material when properly moulded, helps out the smart lines in the lapels.

We have selected Spun Hadeloth that forms a foundation which insures a shapely coat. This is so woven that it does away with the irritation of harsh hair working its way through the fabric. There are some of the hidden advantages that cause you Top Tailors satisfaction.

WILL SPEAK DURING JUBILEE BROADCAST

MRS. E. ABBOTT

Nearly 100 years of age, yet retaining all her mental faculties, Mrs. Elizabeth Abbott, of Ottawa, will take part in the Canadian Radio Commission's broadcast of the King's Silver Jubilee on May 6. Mrs. Abbott will be prominently featured when she converses with her thirteen-year-old great-grandniece, Betty Brown, also of Ottawa, in an exchange of greetings during the programme "Canada in 1935," which will be heard from 8 to 9:30 a.m. P.S.T., over the coast-to-coast network. The broadcast is representative of Canada's oldest and youngest citizens.

When making tests for the broadcast, Mrs. Abbott, whose lovely, calm voice is particularly suitable for radio purposes, told newspapermen and Commission officials that, although she cannot always recognize faces, she can see "a bright pin lying on the floor." Laughing heartily at "pleasant memories," Mrs. Abbott deliberated carefully before she answered questions put to her by George Taggart, CBC production chief. She displayed keen interest in the tests and was insistent on knowing exactly how satisfactory she was.

SUM OFFERED FOR LONDON DEFENCES

London, May 3.—To commemorate the Royal Silver Jubilee and "in view of the dire necessity of the present moment," Lady Houston yesterday renewed her previous offer to give £200,000 (about $972,000) for the defence of London. Lady Houston, who is a dame commander of the Order of the British Empire, in 1931 contributed £100,000 for the Schneider Trophy contest for air speed.

Monthly Return of Chartered Banks Shows Effects of Bank of Canada

Ottawa, May 3.—The monthly return to the Minister of Finance by the chartered banks for March shows changes incidental to the launching of the Bank of Canada which opened for business on March 11. With the transfer to the Central Bank of the gold held by chartered banks, the central gold reserve is abolished and the bulk of the current coin which was mainly in gold, has also been moved to the vaults of the Central Bank in exchange for Bank of Canada notes. Savings account deposits advanced by about $18,000,000 at the end of March compared with some $20,000,000 compared with the same date last year.

SHEEP-KILLING BRINGS CLAIM

Law Covering Worrying of Animals By Dogs Considered By Council

As a sequel to the recent killing of sheep by privately-owned dogs on the uplands farm of James Turner, the Oak Bay Council, in session yesterday evening, considered claims for the loss of the animals.

R. P. Mandy, municipal clerk, explained the act now in force appeared to put considerable responsibility upon municipalities in cases where the owners of raiding dogs were unable to meet claims for losses.

Councillor W. H. Mearns expressed the opinion that if the municipality were forced to pay for the loss of the sheep, an excessive valuation should not be entertained. The owner of the sheep claimed as high as $11 to $15 each for the destroyed animals.

Mr. Mearns was of the opinion that there was a stated value beyond which claims could not be made. Councillor William Ellis suggested it would be wise to ascertain what steps should be taken to protect the municipality in similar cases. It was essential that something be done to prevent a repetition of claims of this nature.

Before any decision is reached the council will look into the matter further.

NEW COMMUNITY HALL AT SOOKE

Site of Existing Building Is Favored By District Association

Sooke, May 3.—A meeting of the Sooke District Community Association was held in the Sooke Hall on Wednesday evening. C. A. Helgeson acted as chairman. The business of the evening was the choosing of a site for the community hall.

Nine sites were considered, two-thirds of the vote favoring the Sooke Hall site with adjacent two lots. The plan is to demolish the present structure and erect the new hall on the lots at the back, which are wider and will allow for a larger building. The front piece of land will be used as a parking space.

A twenty-four-hour telephone service for Sooke was discussed. A reduction in the cost of electricity in this district was advocated. Repairs are needed on the Kaituma Beach Road it was reported.

Old wooden household bellows are out of style in England, and are being shipped to the United States to be sold as "quaint imported fire blowers" at 25 each.

Victorians Glimpse Lights of U.S. Ships

As War Vessels Passed Out to Pacific Yesterday Evening They Played Their Searchlights, Which Could Be Seen From Victoria Waterfront

The powerful searchlights which played from several warships of the United States Navy as they passed silently and mysteriously to sea yesterday evening could be seen from the Victoria waterfront, about fifteen miles away.

The warships paid a fleeting visit to Seattle and Bremerton yesterday, arriving unexpectedly in the morning and leaving just as unexpectedly in the late afternoon. They entered the Strait of Juan de Fuca during the annual fleet manoeuvres. Where they went when they left the strait this morning was known only to the commander-in-chief and his adjutant.

It was the Secretary of the Navy, under Vice-Admiral A. J. Heppner that entered the strait yesterday morning. The lights from eleven warships could be seen from Victoria yesterday evening. The ships were running down the strait at the time between Port Townsend and Race Rocks.

The cruisers that were off Victoria were the Indianapolis, flagship of the scouting force; Louisville, San Francisco, New Orleans, Tuscaloosa, Minneapolis, Astoria, Concord, Chicago, Omaha and Raleigh.

The battle fleet, twelve great floating fortresses, the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Ranger, a division of light cruisers, a division of heavy cruisers, a half-dozen auxiliary ships and a squadron of destroyers spent yesterday in San Francisco Bay.

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN
With the U.S. Fleet in Pacific Manoeuvres, May 2.—Under cover of darkness, all ships darkened and under battle conditions, two great United States fleets silently moved out into the Pacific early today.

One of the most powerful main battle force under command of Admiral Harris Laning. The other was the most powerful, fast-striking and speediest fleet that ever moved from an American harbor under command of Vice-Admiral Arthur Heppner.

Admiral Laning's fleet moved out from San Francisco Bay, while Vice-Admiral Heppner's fleet went from Puget Sound.

Meanwhile other forces, making a total of 155 warships in all, were en route to secret rendezvous in various parts of the Pacific.

The fleet, moving into strategic positions in the 5,000 square miles of the theatre of operations of problem sixteen, the sixteenth annual training manoeuvres of the United States Fleet.

Never before has such an aerial power put out under the American flag, the planes of the Navy, the Army, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Navy's air squadrons.

Never before was such a big submarine force involved in manoeuvres, twelve destroyers and two auxiliary ships of the United States Navy slipped into Puget Sound through the Strait of Juan de Fuca yesterday.

The vessels first appeared at Port Angeles and then steamed into Bremerton for refueling.

While naval officers were not talking, observers believed an "enemy" fleet was approaching the Pacific Coast with the United States Navy forces under order to repel them in a battle expected somewhere between Seattle and the Alaskan Islands.

All radios on the fleet were "dead," coastguard stations reported, the vessels remaining silent as part of the plans of the manoeuvres.

The arrival at Port Angeles was heralded by the tanker Branford. Four

BOSTON SHIP IN TROUBLE

Mary E. O'Hara, With 20 Men Aboard, Reports Her Propeller Missing

Halifax, May 2.—The Boston fishing schooner Mary E. O'Hara, with about twenty men aboard, was reported in trouble yesterday evening off Nova Scotia.

In a message brought to land by the freighter Astoria, and the fact that the Astoria had headed into Halifax instead of taking off the crew was taken as indicating their situation was not very serious at the moment.

A message was marked up on the roll of ships struck along the Atlantic seaboard or sunk by ice and storm this spring on the holostrous Atlantic.

Captain Samuel Harding and his Newfoundland crew of ten were safe on shore, but their schooner Bertha Kerby was a total loss off Ross Bay, Newfoundland. She plunged to the bottom after a short rippled open her hull Wednesday night. Word of the wreck reached St. John's yesterday.

A hundred miles off the island's coast, the big French barque Pomme was counted lost also. She sprang a leak and foundered Monday. Her crew made ashore safely.

A 727-ton steamship—the Norwegian freighter Jan—lay hard and fast on the south coast of Cape Breton Island, a total loss. She drove against Gracie Point, a sharp point for early Wednesday while trying to steer a course through ice floes on her way from Halifax to Louisbourg, N.S.

FIND PLOTS TO DESTROY SHIPS

Six Spaniards in Cuba Were Instructed to Start Disaster Like Morro Castle

Havana, May 2.—The discovery of a plot to destroy the U.S.S. Morro Castle, off the coast of New Jersey last September with a loss of more than 120 lives, was revealed yesterday with the arrest of six Spanish residents of Cuba charged with plotting to destroy vessels in the Spanish Transatlantic Line.

Cuban secret police, working in contact with United States federal authorities, have been busy for months, determining to untangle the mass of clues that apparently pointed to an international sabotage plot.

The prisoners seized were long known to police as labor agitators and members of an Anarcho-syndicalist organization with headquarters in Barcelona, Spain. The immediate cause of their arrest was the interception of a letter from the Catalan capital, in which the men allegedly were instructed to take the necessary action to precipitate a disaster to the steamer Macallanes similar to that on the Morro Castle.

The suspects, Ricardo Pereira, Jose Tejedor, Jose Vidal, Enrique Perez, Jose Diques and Pablo Guerra, were lodged in Principe Prison, on charges of plotting to commit sabotage.

The seized letter was said to have revealed to the men that the Spanish Transatlantic Line had incurred the animosity of labor organizations when it discharged a number of striking seamen and replaced them with strike-breakers.

WAR SEAMAN PASSES AWAY

Late Capt. B. D. O'Connell Was Survivor of Vigilantia Disaster in 1917

New York, May 2.—Capt. Benjamin D. O'Connell, a former master of merchant vessels and a Great War veteran, who was in office on the American submarine Vigilantia when she was sunk by a German submarine torpedo in mid-Atlantic in 1917, died here last week after an illness of only a month.

Born in Peabody, Mass., the late Capt. O'Connell graduated in 1903 from the Massachusetts school of marine engineering. Thereafter he served as a merchant marine officer on many vessels. Among them were the S. Louis and St. Paul of the American Line, on which he was first officer.

He was chief mate of the Vigilantia when she was sunk on May 16, 1917. He and twenty-seven comrades were in open boats for more than three days before they were rescued. Fifteen others were killed. The sinking of the Vigilantia and other ships about the same time helped to precipitate the United States declaration of war on Germany the next month.

Robbery On Ship at Sea

Buenos Aires, Spain, May 2.—The theft of 500,000 lire (about $1,500) from the purser's office of the Italian liner Conte Grande while she was en route across the south Atlantic was disclosed when the ship stopped here yesterday.

The captain said the purser reported he had been chloroformed while asleep and the money taken from the safe. An immediate search of the vessel, he reported, disclosed 50,000 lire concealed in the ventilator shaft, but the remainder has not been found.

One passenger, traveling first class, has been detained for questioning pending the ship's arrival in Italy. The Conte Grande sailed from Buenos Aires.

COAST PEOPLE OFF TO EUROPE

Many Passengers Join S.S. Empress of Britain at San Francisco For England

San Francisco, May 2.—John J. Haskins, industrialist, and former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, left aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain on a world cruise, yesterday refused to discuss politics because "I'm not even interested any more."

The liner dropped 400 passengers here yesterday for a twenty-four-hour visit before leaving early this morning for Los Angeles en route to New York, the final leg of her world cruise. She has just completed 400,000 miles of world cruises.

On the bridge of the ship, the largest ever to call at this port, was Capt. Ronald Niel Stuart, world war veteran, on his first visit here.

The Empress of Britain will reach Los Angeles harbor early to-morrow morning, and will remain there until Sunday evening, when she will proceed to the Panama Canal.
